

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~Director of Communications Research P-8 $8,000

1. Under administrative direction of the officer in charge as to policies but with unlimited latitude in the exercise of independent judgment is responsible for the complete coordination of the technical activities concerned with the security of the Army communications including the construction of codes and ciphers, the issuance of instructions to all operating agencies concerned therewith, the preparation of texts and instructional courses for the training of personnel necessary to conduct these activities, the development and production of new and improved cryptographic equipment, etc.
2. Acts as a consultant and advisor to the Chief Signal Officer, the Officer in Charge of the Signal Security Branch and other officers in all phases of signal security activities, being the technical director.
3. Is directly responsible for the initiation of plans of highly secret signal communication systems.
4. Directs the technical operation of an agency engaged in a solution of intercepted enemy codes and ciphers.
5. Exercises technical supervision over the activities of over 1,000 employees, 90 per cent of whom are performing professional and scientific duties incident to cryptographic operations.
6. This position is of a highly secret and confidential nature and specific examples and illustrations of the work cannot be stated. The duties have drastically increased due to the actual war engagement.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~Technical Director of Security Activities P-8 $8,000

Under administrative direction of the officer in charge as to policies but with unlimited latitude in the exercise of independent judgment is responsible for the complete coordination of the technical activities concerned with the security of the Army communications including the construction of codes and ciphers, the issuance of instructions to all operating agencies concerned therewith, the preparation of texts and instructional courses for the training of personnel necessary to conduct these activities, the developing and producing new and improved cryptographic equipment, etc.;

Acts as a consultant and advisor to the Chief Signal Officer, the Officer in Charge of the Signal Security Branch and other officers in all phases of the signal security activities, being the technical director;

Is directly responsible for the initiation of plans of highly secret signal communication operations;

Directs the operation of an agency engaged in a solution of intercepting enemy codes and ciphers; directs a laboratory for the employment and detection of secret inks;

Supervises and is responsible for the activities of over 1,000 employees, 90 per cent of whom are performing professional and scientific duties incident to cryptographic operations.

This position is of a highly secret and confidential nature and specific examples and illustrations of the work cannot be stated. The duties have drastically increased due to the actual war engagement.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~